home to 2,700 businesses. From the enterprising days of its pioneering past, Castle Rock has prospered as a place that encourages industry and entrepreneurial spirit. Castle Rock is working to become a self-sufficient, free-standing community. With its highly educated and skilled workforce, and an economic climate that welcomes new and expanding businesses, you'll find Castle Rock an ideal business location.

Businesses on the Grow in Castle Rock

Smaller businesses are the foundation of the local business community. Eighty nine percent of area businesses have five or fewer employees due in part to the high number of home based businesses (1,500/ 56%). Of the 1200 commercially based local firms, 43% are located in downtown Castle Rock, where several new office buildings have recently been built. In recent years, commercial space is being built at a rate of 300,000 to 500,000 square feet per year. This trend is expected to continue. Immediate economic development targets include:

- A variety of professional and business service firms
- Engineers and architects
- Geophysics and aerospace companies
- High technology firms
- Light manufacturing
- Retail services
